

Eternity is for those who seek, those who question, those who enjoy chasing curiosity to the ends of, well, wherever it ends.

Take a light-hearted but completely serious “fire-up-the-neurons” journey with the author as he probes the nature of eternity and its nearly inseparable partner, creation.

It’ll get you thinking, wondering, smiling, musing, questioning, and thinking some more about the nature of creation, God, eternity and our place in it.

“Some readers might consider this book politically incorrect. They might take offense at my occasional tone of jocularity. They may confuse this lightness of heart for irreverence. If that is the case, they’re missing an important detail. If Jesus was human (He was), and if he wept (He did), then He also laughed.” – Frank Tilton

About the Author

Frank Tilton is an amalgam of curiosity, careers, and Christian commitment. Curiosity has led him to inquire about life’s most fundamental issue, eternity itself. Careers—one military, one civilian—have uniquely equipped him for this quest. Christian commitment is his keystone for this innovative, faith-inspired exploration into eternity and creation. Active in teaching and lecturing ministries in his church, Tilton’s faith journey has taken him from his days as a seminarian, through both a U.S. Air Force career and a second profession in teaching. Now a retired middle school teacher of German and English, Tilton enjoys pondering life’s biggest questions.
